

Source of wealth guidelines

Our Application forms contain a section called 'Source of wealth'. It asks for background information to explain where the money you are using to pay your premiums has come from. The aim of this document is to help you to determine what information you need to send us and if source of wealth evidence is needed.

We are committed to the international effort to detect and prevent financial services being used to launder the proceeds of crime. To help with this, we must comply with legal and regulatory obligations and take a risk-based approach by obtaining information about how our customers have acquired the wealth they will use to make all new investments or increases in premium contributions. In some circumstances we ask for documentary evidence to support the source of wealth description.

This document should only be used as guidance for understanding what information and verification will be required to support your application.

Due to legal and regulatory requirements, there are some countries where we will not accept business. Please refer to Section 7 Excluded Jurisdictions on page 3.

How to use this document when completing an application

The Application form contains a section called 'source of wealth'. This document aims to help you to determine what information you need to send us and if source of wealth evidence is required. When completing the Application form there are two things to consider:

- 1 Describing the source of wealth generating activity you will use to provide premium contributions in sufficient detail.
- 2 Will we require evidence to support the source of wealth description written onto the Application form? Sending this information to us with the application will reduce the time it takes us to consider the application.

1 Source of wealth generation

This part of the Application form should be completed as fully and accurately as possible. Please do not provide generic or vague descriptions of source of wealth, as this will delay the application processing.

Common 'sources of wealth' are listed in Table 1 on page 4. The second column next to the source of wealth description indicates the level of detail that should be written onto the application.

Non-individual clients

- Trust applications

For trust investments, the same source of wealth information as above should be provided for the assets settled into trust, together with details of the settlor.

- Corporate applications

If the corporate applicant has been created to manage wealth, the same source of wealth information as detailed in Table 1 should be provided in relation to the origin of the assets transferred to the Company, and the beneficial owner details of the original assets.

- SIPP and QROP applications

Please provide the same source of wealth information as above for the 'member' on whose behalf the SIPP-QROP customer is acting.

2 Independent evidence to support wealth generation

To identify applications where we will ask for independent documentary evidence to support the source of wealth we use a combination of:

- For protection applications for Qatar and the UAE where the sum assured is USD 2,000,000 and above (or the equivalent), inclusive of inforce policies if any.
- The size of the premiums.
- Your country of residence or country where the wealth generating activity takes place.

To decide if we need evidence in support of source of wealth please follow these three steps:

Using Table 2 on page 7:

- 1 Identify what risk category number your country of residence has been given.
- 2 If different from above, identify the risk category number of the country where you are generating your wealth.
- 3 Taking the higher country risk number from 1 and 2 above, locate the premium level for that particular country/country number. If the premium commitment is the same, or higher, than this figure, you need to provide independent evidence to support the wealth generation statement on the Application form.

You will find guidance on the sort of documentary evidence that is normally sufficient to support the common 'source of wealth' descriptions in the third column of Table 1 on page 4.

3 Certification of documents

All copies of original documentation must be properly certified. Improper certification could lead to delays. You must have seen the original document, before you can certify a copy of that document. Certification should take the form of:

- (i) A statement: 'I certify that this is a complete and accurate copy of the original document that I have seen...' (or words to similar effect);
- (ii) The full printed name of the person performing the certification;
- (iii) The signature of the person performing the certification;
- (iv) The date the document was certified; and
- (v) The position or capacity of the certifier.

If the document is more than one page the certifier can either:

- certify each page individually, or
- certify the top page and add a statement detailing the number of pages of the original documentation seen.

4 Existing customers and evidence to support wealth generation

We need documentary evidence each time a premium increase moves the total cumulative premium that you will pay on or higher than the premium limits allocated to the particular country risk.

5 Where source of wealth evidence has previously been supplied

The premium limits allocated to the country risk classification are already very high. It is reasonable to expect that if you have previously provided evidence of wealth, we would ask for more up-to-date evidence if subsequent premium increases add up to or exceed the premium limits published in this document.

For example:

- For a customer resident in a category 3 country an initial single premium of USD 500,000 was paid and evidence of wealth generation provided.
- Subsequently, the customer makes a number of additional single premium contributions.
- When the sum of these contributions takes the total, cumulative premium contribution to USD 1,000,000 or higher, we will seek further evidential support for source of wealth.

6 Applications combining a regular premium and a single premium contribution

To determine the premium limits for applications consisting of both regular and single premiums, the annual regular premium should be multiplied by 10 and added to the single premium amount.

Then refer to Table 2 on page 7, single premium column, to determine if evidence of wealth generation is required.

7 Excluded Jurisdictions

There are a number of jurisdictions where we will not accept business.

A summary of these countries is provided in 'Our Jurisdictions' document.

Table 1 – Source of wealth generation

We recognize that each application is unique and it may be difficult to fit source of wealth description into one of the categories provided below as examples. We will, therefore, be happy to consider acceptance of other suitable documents as evidence of wealth generation.

Should details and documentary evidence provided be insufficient, unclear or imprecise, we may request alternative documentation.

Table 2 – Country risk classifications and premium limits (For new and top-up business)

Important: For the purposes of applying these guidelines, the 'country' refers to the client's residential address, or the country where wealth generating activity takes place, or both. Use the higher risk number to determine the premium level that triggers our evidential requirements.

Documentary evidence should be original documents, or properly certified copies.
